Amendment No. 1:

Proposed
Interim Growth Management Ordinance
Town of Deerfield, N.H.

I. Authority

In accordance with the provisions of New Hampshire Revised Statutes Annotated Chapter 674:23, the legislative body of the Town of Deerfield hereby adopts the following interim growth management Ordinance which shall apply to all residential development within the Town except that which is specifically exempted as provided herein.

II Need

The Planning Board is concerned that, due to residential subdivision activity and the substantial increase in the number of permits being issued for new dwelling unit construction, the Town is not sufficiently prepared to properly accommodate a continuation of the current growth trend. Particularly concerning are effects that such growth will have on the local street and highway system, the educational facilities, police and fire protection services, etc., and the likely detrimental impact that unmanaged residential development will have on the schedule and level of municipal expenditures that will be required to keep pace with unmanaged growth.

III Purpose

The purpose of this interim Ordinance is to temporarily limit residential growth by instituting restrictions on the number of lots that the Planning Board may be permitted to approve in residential subdivisions and further, to limit the number of building permits that may be issued for new dwelling unit construction.

IV Limitation

These Ordinance shall continue in effect for a period of one (1) year from the date of their adoption during which time the Planning Board shall develop a growth management process and a capital improvement program which, in combination, are intended to assess and balance local and regional housing needs and the Town's capacity for providing the facilities and services needed to properly accommodate the expected growth.

V. Exemptions

The following are specifically exempted from the restrictions imposed by this Ordinance:

A. All commercial and industrial development;

B. The repair of, replacement of, or the addition to an existing dwelling unit.

C. All residential subdivisions, and other proposals for the development of residential uses, which have been presented to and which have been formally accepted by the Planning Board as final plans or plats under the provisions of the Subdivision Regulations and the Nonresidential Site Plan Review Regulations prior to the date of the posting of this notice of the public hearing on this Ordinance.

VI. Restrictions

The following restrictions shall apply during the period that this Ordinance are in effect:

A. No existing lot of record shall be subdivided into more than 3 lots for residential development purposes;

B. Any lot subdivided for residential development purposes shall not be further subdivided for such purposes;

C. The intended use of each proposed lot shall be clearly stated on the plat submitted;

D. The total number of dwelling units for which building permits may be issued shall not exceed 27. However, no application for a duplex dwelling or conversion apartments shall be denied simply because the established limit would be exceeded by 1 dwelling unit in the case of a duplex, or by 3 dwelling units in the case of conversion apartments.

E. Building permits shall be made available on a first come, first serve basis; however, the maximum number of permits that an individual developer shall be allowed to receive shall be limited to that number which limits the developer to four (4) dwelling units. For purposes of this section,

"developer" shall be defined as any person, corporation, partnership, trust, association, or other business entity controlled by said person, corporation, partnership, trust, association, or other entity. For purposes of this definition, ownership of an interest greater than 49% or service as a general partner, grantor, declarant, trustee, or officer of any corporation, partnership, trust, association, or other entity shall, without other evidence, be determinate of having control of a corporation, partnership, trust, association or other entity. Similarly, unless the person involved can demonstrate independence and a separate venture to the evidence presented, any spouse, children, or acquaintance of a person shall be considered to be a single developer with that person for the purposes of this section.

F. Upon receipt of a building permit, the recipient shall have a maximum of 60 days within which to have the building foundation in place, or the permit shall be forfeited. The recipient may apply, in writing, to the Building Inspector for a one time extension of a maximum of 7 days. Such extension may be granted only for documented hardship which is solely the result of delays caused by weather conditions. Forfeited permits shall be made available for re-issue.
